In his talk titled “What Causes Inflation: Some Counter Intuitive insights to Quantity Theory of Money” he exposed the complexity of price as a variable and the information’s available with change in prices. In his lecture he challenged some of the dominant myths related to inflation like economic growth leads to inflation, oil price shocks causes inflation etc. He pointed out that these statements are true only from an accounting point of view and not economic explanation. He cautioned students to think critically and argued that behavior of price level is not so simple to understand as we assume.
